where in its path.

All highways south of San Antonio were impassable, the State Highway Department reported. State police said the perimeter of the isolated area ran from Matagorda, 150 miles northeast of Corpus Christi, and then in a great arc to San Antonio and Laredo.

Ed Shroeder, assistant disaster director of Nueces County's (Corpus Christi) Red Cross, said officials in Sinton and Victoria pleaded for food and for snakebite kits because so many poisonous reptiles had fled to high ground along with people.

Capt. Marvin Francis, operations officer for a National Guard battalion, said "That's right. Our drivers tell us snakes are everywhere. But so far we have had no reports of anyone being bitten."

Francis said his sources in the National Guard said Three Rivers was aiming at 100 per cent evacuation.

Fifty National Guard trucks were sent from Gatesville to Victoria Wednesday en route to the Lower Rio Grande Valley but many stopped to help Victoria residents. At 8 a.m. the Guadalupe River at Victoria was at 30.01 feet and expected to go to 31 feet. Flood stage is 21 feet, but levees protect much of the city.

The San Antonio Fire Department estimated 10,000 refugees there, mostly those forced from their homes by roaring creeks.

In higher taxes under the proposal, but that if there is a three per cent boost in inflation, the extra price tag would be $285.

Fowler had this advice for the congressman who cites current voter disapproval of the tax hike proposal: "Let him look at what may well turn into a voter backlash with a painful political consequences if he reads only his current mail and ignores the economic indicators."

Fowler told the National Press Club Thursday there is danger that many congressmen may bow to "wholly normal but uninformed taxpayer reaction and vote against the tax increase."

Fowler has done considerable campaigning for the tax hike bill on Capitol Hill and in other forums, but this was considered his most outspoken speech on the subject.

However, the two Republican congressional leaders continued their attacks on the proposal, while conceding it isn't dead yet.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said that while the bill couldn't pass the House right now, the situation could change if President Johnson makes what he called a genuine effort to reduce spending.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois added at a joint news conference: "Nothing is dead around here. Somehow these things have a way of coming to life."

A money bill of major concern to millions of federal workers as well as to Johnson's budgeters was pushed another big step through the congressional mill. The House Post Office Committee approved 19 to 6 a measure providing pay raises for postal workers and all classified government workers.

The bill also raises postal rates.

The measure provides a 6 per cent pay raise for postal workers and a 4 1/2 per cent raise for other federal workers.

It would raise the cost of mailing letter from five cents to six cents and air mail stamps from eight cents to ten cents. Post cards would go up correspondingly to five and eight cents.

This bill faces a possible veto by the President; the postal pay raise is higher than his recommendation, as is the postal rate hike. But in order to limit the veto threat, the committee tied in the classified pay raise, too.

Enactment of Education TV Bill Sure

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some details remain to be worked out, but House passage virtually assures enactment later this year of landmark legislation to give a federal shot in the arm to non-commercial radio and television.

The bill passed 265 to 91 Thursday night. Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., of the House Commerce Committee called it "possibly the most important bill that comes out of the 90th Congress."

It would create a public corporation supported by federal and private funds to subsidize programming and provide facilities for individual educational stations to form a noncommercial network.

The bill carries an initial 39-million authorization to set up the corporation, but decisions on long-term financing are being deferred until next year.

A move by Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, to eliminate the corporation and provide an extra $5 million in federal aid to educational stations was rejected 194 to 167. Devine was supported by 124 Republicans and 43 Democrats and opposed by 33 Republicans and 161 Democrats.

Earlier, a similar move by Rep. Albert W. Watson, R-S.C., who called the proposed corporation a possible "monster" or "Frankenstein," was narrowly defeated 120 to 111.

The house bill differs from the Senate measure—passed in May with one dissent—in limiting the corporation to one year and in providing that no more than eight of the 15 members of its board of directors be members of the same political party.

The president would nominate and the Senate confirm nine of the board members, and these nine would name the other six.

The bill also authorizes spending $38 million over the next three years on construction of educational television stations and $500,000 for a study of instructional television by the department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Worker Fined in Illegal License Deal

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Municipal Judge Milton McLees fined an Indiana carnival worker $150 Thursday for possession of a fraudulent Arkansas driver's license.

The conviction of Thomas B. Laver Jr., 28, of Anderson, Ind., was the first since state Revenue Commissioner B. Bryan Larey announced last week that his department had uncovered an operation in which several thousand of the fraudulent licenses had been sold through revenue offices at Van Buren, Walnut Ridge and Hot Springs.

Special Agent James Best of the Revenue Department told McLees that Laver's license listed a Hot Springs address and had been issued by Virginia Robinson at Van Buren.

Police officers who arrested Laver last week at a North Little Rock motel said Laver had shown them the license as identification.

sembly adopt legislation calling for a constitutional convention. Its other recommendations would be submitted to convention delegates, who would be charged with the responsibility of drafting a new constitution.

The new document then would require approval of the voters before it could replace the state's present constitution, which was adopted in 1874.

Sen. Robert Harvey of Swift, a member of the commission asked for abolition of the lieutenant governor's office. The commission rejected his motion 12-8.

It also refused to discontinue the lieutenant governor's job as presiding officer of the Senate, but agreed to take away the vote he now may cast to break a tie.

It voted to expand his authority, however, by permitting the governor to appoint him as an ex officio member of any state board, commission or agency other than the quasi-judicial regulatory bodies.

Among the other proposals it would like to see written into a new constitution were:

— That elected state officials be given four-year terms, instead of two, and that the governor be limited to serving two successive terms.

— That constitutional limits on the salaries of elected officials be removed.

— That overriding a gubernatorial veto require a three-fifths vote of the General Assembly, rather than a simple majority.

— That the governor and lieutenant governor be elected jointly.

— That the number of independent state departments be limited to 20.

No Telling What 10 Years Will Bring

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you think the world is all fouled up, wait till you see what it looks like 10 years from now. At the rate it's going, it's unpredictable. So is the rate at which it is going.

When the United States dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima in 1945, a bomber did it. Most people, never having thought or heard of such a weapon, didn't think much beyond the bomb when they did hear of it.

The delivery system, by means of a bomber, didn't seem old-fashioned then. But it soon proved to be as the world leaped into the atomic age, not knowing where it was going, as events showed.

The Soviets caught up with the United States and had their first atomic explosion in 1949. That worried the United States. So in 1950 President Harry S. Truman ordered a worse bomb, the hydrogen one, developed.

The Soviets were working on the same idea. Although the United States had its hydrogen explosion in 1952, the Soviets had theirs in 1953. The next thing was to find a better system for delivering bombs than in bombers.

Both sides built missiles, short-range and the intercontinental kind which could deliver bombs across an ocean. Meanwhile, the Chinese were stirring.

In October 1949, just a month after Moscow's first atomic test, the Red Chinese took control of all mainland China. The fact that they didn't have bomb plants at work right away may explain in part why they were so willing a year later to get into the Korean War against the United States.

They didn't have priceless plants to lose. And the United States, loaded with bombs, would be reluctant to use them against the bombless Chinese if only because of world opinion. And it didn't. The Chinese got out lightly.

They finally got around to bomb-making and then moved fast. They had their first atomic test about three years ago and then last June tried their first hydrogen explosion.

But now they have nuclear plants and fear of losing them at this stage may be one good reason why so far they have refrained from getting into the Vietnam war against this country. The United States would probably go all-out this time.

Right now, still in their hydrogen bomb development stage and with no missiles to carry them across the Pacific, the Chinese are no menace to the United States. But they will be when they get the missiles, which some experts think may be in the mid-1970s at the latest.

Because of this realization Congress and the Joint Chiefs of Staff put pressure on President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to start working on a defense against a Chinese missile attack by building an antimissile missile (ABM) system which, if completely done, McNamara says, might cost $40 billion.

Johnson and McNamara were reluctant to get in that deep in a hurry. The pressure became too much after the Chinese explosion in June. Monday McNamara said the United States would get to work on an ABM system and it should be in good shape in five years.

This ABM system will be mainly a defense against China, the hope being that Moscow can be persuaded not to get into an antimissile-missile contest with this country, since both have enough nuclear weapons now to scare each other into not starting a war.

But what happens if, perhaps within 10 years, China and the Soviet Union patch up their quarrel and turn their missiles toward this country from Asia and Europe? Then the United States might be in sad shape if it didn't have both an anti-Chinese and anti-Soviet antimissile-missile defense.

But by the mid-1970s, when China is fully equipped with its nuclear missile supply, both short and long-range, it may be able to terrorize its Asian neighbors into such submission that all American efforts, including the one in Vietnam, to keep China from dominating Asia may have been in vain.

Worse still, at the rate they're going, by the mid-1970s the United States, Soviet Union and China may be at work on an anti-missile-missile system to frustrate the antimissile-missile system which is supposed to frustrate the simple missile system.

complete between Memphis and West Memphis, but traffic is carried over a four-lane temporary route over the Memphis and Arkansas Bridge. Construction of an interstate bridge is underway.

Paving is underway on all sections of 140 between Lehi (six miles west of West Memphis) and Hazen. The road is open from West Memphis to Lehi and from North Little Rock to Hazen.

Going westward from North Little Rock, 140 is open to Conway, from east of Russellville to west of Clarksville and from Dyer, 20 miles west of Fort Smith, to the Oklahoma line.

A four-mile segment eastward from Dyer to Highway 215 is being graded. The 20-mile stretch from Highway 215 to the Johnson County line is in the planning stage, and plans are complete for the segment between the Johnson County line and the western terminus of the Clarksville bypass.

East of Russellville, the 9.3-mile segment to Atkins is being paved, and 8.5-mile segment from Atkins to Kenwood is being graded, a paving contract has been let on a 10.5-mile stretch from Kenwood to Plumerville and grading is underway on a 16.6 mile segment from Plumerville to the end of the present pavement south of Conway.

Interstate 30 is open from North Little Rock to Malvern. Traffic is also moving on a 24.8 mile stretch between Caddo Valley and Highway 51 (which includes the Arkadelphia by-pass) and on an 11.5 mile segment from Homan to the Texas state line, by-passing Texarkana.

Between Malvern and the north end of the Arkadelphia by-pass the Malvern to Rockport segment of 7.3 miles is completed but not open; the 15.5 mile section from Rockport to Friendship is being paved, and the 3.4-mile section between Friendship and Caddo Valley is completed but not open.

Southwestward from the end of the Arkadelphia by-pass, a 2-mile segment to Boughton Road is being paved, grading is in progress on 4.8 miles from Boughton Road to Highway 19, a 16.3-mile segment from Highway 19 to Highway 4 is in the planning stage, a 7.8-mile stretch from Highway 4 to Sheppard is being graded and the 10.5 miles from Sheppard to Homan is being paved.

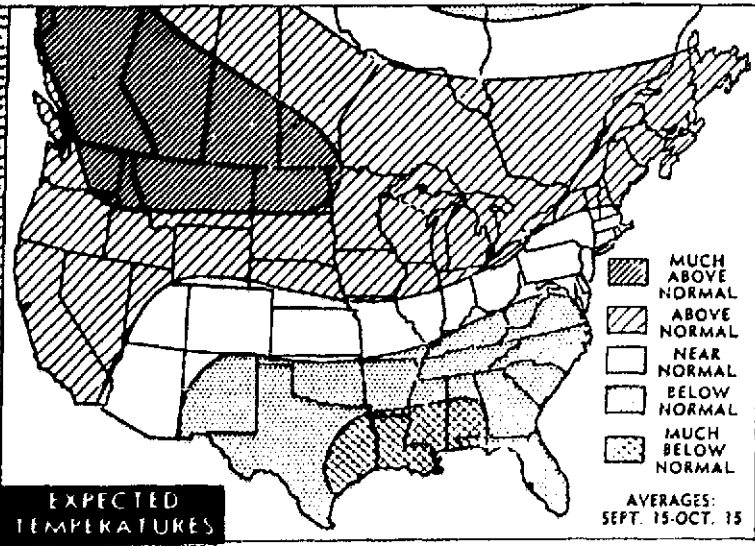

The Highway Department estimates that total cost of the Arkansas interstate system will be $485,000,000. This figure is only a guess and it depends on whether construction costs stabilize.

The figure represents an expenditure of approximately $48,500,000 in state funds since federal money comes at a 9-1 ratio, $9 of federal money for each $1 of state money.

River Basin Group Meets

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Ola., was scheduled to speak here today at a joint meeting of the Arkansas Basin Association and a regional section of the American Waterway Operators.

Robert Nabholz of Conway, president of the ABA, said Edmondson and Arnold Sobel, a vice president of the General Dynamics Corp., would be among those discussing progress of the Arkansas River navigation project and potential use of the river.

The waterway operators were to discuss a user tax on river shipping.

The Arkansas is expected to be navigable from the Mississippi River to Pine Bluff and Little Rock by December 1968 and to Tulsa, Okla., by 1970.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. RONALD N. FULLER

In a candlelight service at the Garrett Memorial Baptist Church in Hope Miss Phyllis Carol Baker and Ronald N. Fuller exchanged their marriage vows at 7:00 p.m. September 2.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Baker of Hope and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fuller of Hot Springs.

Lighted tapers, pink daisies, gladiolus, and cascades of southern simlax provided the background for the double ring ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Clyde Johnson.

Mrs. Wade Warren provided the nuptial music at the organ. Soloist, Mrs. Clyde Johnson, sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a floor length gown of chantilly lace and bridal satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neck line. The bell shaped sleeves were of chantilly lace. Her four tiered finger tip veil tulle fell from a crown of bridal satin trimmed with seed pearl.

The bride's bouquet was pink roses centered with an orchid. The candle lighters were Miss Holly Fuller of Hot Springs, sister of the groom and David Baker, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Larry Crain served as matron of honor. Miss Aletha Johnson served as bridesmaid. They wore light pink satin dresses and carried long stem pink roses. In their hair the attendants wore pink bows accented with pink veils.

Tom Barren of Hot Springs served as best man. Craig Fuller of Hot Springs, brother of the groom served as groomsman.

Ushers for the evening were Denis Wood and Fred Vesser. Mrs. Baker, mother of the bride was attired in a royal blue crepe dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Fuller, mother of the groom chose an aqua brocade with matching accessories. Tied corsages were pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church.

The brides table was lovely in its floor length pink overland with white net, centered with a candelabra and an arrangement of pink roses. The edge of the table was accented in various places with pink daisies caught up in pink bows.

Miss Lynn Baker of Pine Bluff, cousin of the bride was in charge of the bride's book.

Others assisting in the reception were Mrs. W. C. Baker, of Pine Bluff, Misses Gail Cross and Becky Butler.

For travel the bride wore a pink wool suit, with black patent accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet completed the ensemble.

After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Arkadelphia. The bride will be employed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and the groom will be a student at Henderson State Teachers College.

Coming, Going

Mrs. Helen Ruffin Marshall, Urbana, Ill., is visiting relatives and friends in Hope and Texarkana.

Miss Edna Middlebrook, Little Rock, will spend the weekend in Hope with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Ellis, Ft. Worth, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis in Hope and with relatives in Nevada County.

Mrs. Sam W. Strong, Jr., President of the Friday Music Club of Hope, was a guest at the Texarkana Country Club on Wednesday for the 70th anniversary observance of the Wednesday Music Club of Texarkana. Mrs. Helen Ruffin Marshall of Urbana, Ill., and Hope was also a guest.

The Rev. and Mrs. Everett Vinson and Sarah went to Pine Bluff Thursday for the funeral services Friday morning for E. C. Lindsay, uncle of Mrs. Vinson.

Mrs. Luna McKissack of Ross-ton entered Wadley Hospital in Texarkana on Tuesday. She was accompanied to Texarkana by Mr. McKissack, Mrs. Charles Ellis, and Mrs. Foy Fore.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Coker and David, Magnolia, visited the Charles Ellis and family last Sunday.

Female Public Aid Workers March

CHICAGO (AP) — Female public aid employees — armed with signs saying "worry about miniskirts, not miniskirts" — marched in front of the Cook County Department of Public Aid office Wednesday.

The 15 women, all in their 20s and conservatively dressed, were protesting against the miniskirt ban issued recently by William Robinson, public aid director. They charged that he should be concerned with the shortage of workers, not short dresses.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope, who seems to have discovered the fountain of enthusiasm along with the fountain of youth, returned to NBC Wednesday night to start his 30th year of broadcasting with one of those ragtag yet thoroughly enjoyable comedy shows in which he specializes.

Somewhat, with Hope's charm and sureness of touch, these shows are pulled together and turn out smoothly.

This season he will be around about once a month since he has been freed of the task of playing host on his weekly anthology series.

As could be anticipated, he went to work in his opening monologue on politics, scurrying around neatly from comment on George Hamilton's retirement from the White House scene to, of course, Shirley Temple's bid for public office — "with George Murphy as senator, Ronald Reagan as governor and Shirley Temple in Congress, do you realize that California is the only state whose politicians can make their own movies."

The comedy special, in a mild change of pace, was hung on a single theme — old time vaudeville. This gave Hope a chance to show some old film of the by-gone days, including some amusing shots of himself as a rising young comedian. More importantly, it gave him a chance to run through some old and pretty terrible comedy routines.

Phyllis Diller, in a costume and fright wig more bizarre than any she has worn to date, had an amusing routine about her shortcomings as a housewife; "I'm one of the few people who ever had a grease fire — in her sink."

Jack Jones sang in his pleasant voice and then he and Hope played the parts of Jimmy Durante's partners in a nostalgic sketch. Durante was very effective in his rendition of "The September Song."

There is a new national Nielsen report — a survey of night audiences made on a quick weekly basis from viewing choices of a 580-home sample. It will supplement but not replace the important bi-weekly Nielsen ratings report and is called "The Fast" in the trade.

The report for the period between Sept. 4 and Sept. 10 — when CBS and ABC were presenting most of their new shows for the season and NBC had only one night of premieres — showed that "The Miss America Pageant" was watched by viewers in more than 20 million homes, about 37 per cent of the national total. It topped the list in popularity.

"High Chaparral," also on NBC was a special two-hour show broadcast as a pre-season special, and was second in popularity.

Generally, the public was busily looking over the new CBS and ABC product since CBS' "He and She," NBC's "The Mothers-In-Law" and ABC's "Second Hundred Years" and "The Flying Nun" — all, significantly, comedies, made the top 10 list.

The survey, however, is not considered too significant in terms of a show's success or failure since it was made at a time when viewers are on their annual dial-twisting binge.

HOMEMAKERS

Safety First at Home

Safety begins in the home. Protecting the family can be a decorative asset, too. For example, save skinned shins by coating a light switch, doorknobs to basements, attics, stairwells or dark hallways with a reflective enamel. Select a color that coordinates or contrasts with your color scheme.

Protect Summer Clothes

Protect your summer clothes for more wear next season. Launder, starch and iron them before storing. If you have hanging space put summer dresses and suits in a dry-cleaning bag and seal both top and bottom with masking tape to keep out dust.

TAX CONSULTANT OPPORTUNITY

H&R BLOCK, The Nations largest tax service is desirous of locating someone in Hope who is interested in building a tax business of appreciable size. Prefer someone with accounting background. Training will be available. For details write H&R Block, 1819 Central Avenue, Hot Springs, Arkansas. Or Phone NA41353.

Cellist to Take Part in Festival

NEW YORK (AP) — Celist Charlotte Moorman, a champion of avant-grade music who was convicted last May of giving an indecent performance, will take over a Staten Island ferryboat next week for a 24-hour arts festival.

The city's marine and aviation commissioner, Herbert B. Halberg, announced Wednesday that the festival would be given the use of the ferry John F. Kennedy on Sept. 29.

The shapely Miss Moorman, 28, received a suspended sentence in Criminal Court May 9 for a performance Feb. 9 in which she allegedly played her cello while nude from the waist up.

We are going to let the Hideous Hog tell the full story of today's hand. He had been asked why he was so unkind to the Rueful Rabbit.

He replied, "Let me tell you what happened to me the other day. The Rabbit met me on the way to the club and said he wanted to play that new Swiss gadget where the jump response of four clubs to a major opening showed a good fit, a couple of aces and a singleton. I begged him not to play it. I said that I was unfamiliar with it and did everything in my power to discourage him to no avail. He had read about it, liked it and was going to play it."

"I cut him the first rubber. Both sides got vulnerable and we made one diamond to give us 20 on score. I picked up this nice hand and opened one heart. The Rabbit bid four clubs and everything looked fine. His Swiss gadget had come up and its just might work. I bid four diamonds to mark time and West asked 'was that the Swiss Convention?'"

"No one answered but when the Rabbit turned several shades of purple I knew we were gone. Things looked even worse when he passed."

East took his ace and king of diamonds and led a third diamond. I discarded my king of clubs and led dummy's queen. My only hope was that the heart and club aces were split and that whoever took the club ace would lead a spade, not a heart. Sure enough, East took his ace of clubs and led a spade. I let it ride to dummy's jack, drew the last trump and made my contract."

"Why didn't you draw the last trump earlier?" asked one of his audience.

"That would have given West a chance to signal and East would have found the heart lead," replied the hog.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1♠ 1♥ 1♠ 1♥
Pass 1NT Pass 1♦

You, South, hold:
♠ K 9 ♠ J 5 4 ♠ A Q 4 3 ♠ Q 3 2

What do you do now?
A—Just bid three no-trump. You don't have a five-card suit. He has shown a minimum opening of 12 to 14, or possibly 15, high-card points. A slam should not be bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding one no-trump, North rebids one spade. What do you do now?

Dear Helen: My wife can't take kidding. She takes everything I say wrong and has, for 20 years we've been married.

For instance we went out to buy some gifts the other day. I complained of my feet hurting and said the spirit of giving was putting holes in my shoes.

She got real mad and stormed out of the store. Which got me stared at like I was a wife-beater. Later I told her I was sorry, but she just said, "Get out of here and leave me alone."

I've always tried to do what she wants, and get her what will make her happy. God knows I love her with all my heart.

Please tell me how to help her be less sensitive, before I wind up in the booby hatch. —W.A.

Dear W: Your wife sounds more spoiled than sensitive, and she'll never change as long as you know. Don't apologize for HER tantrums. When she says, "Get out of here..." do just that, and let her worry. If she yaps about nothing, snap back. In other words, tame the shrew... though you're 20 years too late. Good luck—you'll need it! —H

Dear Helen: What is your opinion of a man who brutalizes animals? When our neighbor comes home from work, his dog crawls to him on his belly, like a snake.

Is he sick, or has he got a yellow streak down his back? —D.G.

Dear D: Dog or man? I've noticed that some dogs crawl on their bellies naturally even though they're treated well. Moreover, an animal usually doesn't come out and greet the person who beats him.

Cruelly should be reported to the ASPCA, but hasty judgments can get you into a peck of trouble. —H

Smackover, Hope Game Kickoff 7:30

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star SportsWriter

"You don't know what it's like to play football, until you've played against the Battlin' Bucks of Smackover. This year's Hope Bobcats will find out tonight. Resuming a long-time rivalry that stretches back over many years, the Bucks and the Bobcats hit the Hammond Stadium turf at 7:30 p.m. tonight. Don't worry about the brand of ball to be played, because it shall be good. And Smackover will be out to get revenge for the Cats' 19-14 win at Smackover."

Many people, including this writer, have lauded the Bucks' passing attack, featuring quarterback Mike Holloway's strikes to ends Alvin Lotz and Wilfred Jackson. Look that over, and then absorb the fact that a Smackover team much similar to this one passed very few times on Hope last year. This could very easily happen again, as the Bucks have a hard-hitting backfield.

Watch for Holloway to run the ball well, and halfbacks Martin Phillips and speedster Dennis Biggers will run right at your face. Add to that the fact that their offensive line averages 186 pounds per man from tackle to tackle, and you see that these Bucks have the potential to blow every 4-AA team off the line of scrimmage. After upsetting the Flarview Cardinals 14-13 last week, maybe they ought to be named the Ramblin' Wreck, instead of the Battlin' Bucks.

On the Hope side, the Bobcats will most likely field the same eleven that started at DeQueen, with the exception being the possibility of Buzz Anderson returning to quarterback. The line remains intact, as the Cats came back from DeQueen free of injury.

Head Coach Freddie Glaze is not looking ahead to the Malvern Leopards next week, because "we've got to get this one first." If the Bobcats offense finds itself as the defense has, Hope will have an easier time. Still, missed extra points could mean the difference between winning and losing. Meanwhile nobody is overconfident on the Bobcats' side.

KXAR will broadcast the game live, with pre-game activities beginning at 7:15 p.m.

Yerger to Host Peake High Team

By CHARLES JONES
Yerger SportsWriter

The Yerger Tigers are to play host to the Peake High Waterbuffaloes of Arkadelphia in Hammond Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night.

This game will be one of the most important ones to the Tigers because of the fact that it will be a conference game.

The Tigers unsatisfied with the result of last year's 14-14 tie are out to be victorious over the Waterbuffaloes this year. In the past Arkadelphia has always been tough against the Tigers, but Yerger shouldn't have many problems against Peake High this year because they have lost most of their starting lettermen.

Houston to Surprise Spartans, Irish Will Win, Wildcats Over Miami: Hoople Says

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

Egad, friends, hold on to your seats, the football world is about to erupt. With most of the nation's major collegiate powers moving into action this Saturday, we foresee no less than three upsets of epic proportions—Oklahoma State over Arkansas, Northwestern to shock Miami of Florida, and Houston to surprise mighty Michigan State!

Granted these predictions are startling — they even amazed me — but that's the way — heh-heh — the mop will flop, as my old friend Side Show Quinn is wont to say. The biggest eruption will occur in East Lansing where potent Houston, one of the best clubs in the football-rich southwest, will hand the Spartans a 28-20 spanking — har-rump!

In an equally astonishing performance, Northwestern will prove to be a rude host as the Wildcats defeat highly regarded Miami, 27-21 — kaff-kaff!

And in a real crowd pleaser, Oklahoma State will edge heavily favored Arkansas, 11-10, at Little Rock.

There are several other contests worthy of special note on this week's card.

First and foremost of these will find Texas journeying to

By The Book

Southern California where the Longhorns will open their season on a victorious note by vanquishing the Trojans, 21-14.

At South Bend the Fighting Irish, directed by my protegee Ara Parseghian, will make their '67 debut a success by turning back California 36-18.

The premier attraction in the east pits Syracuse against Baylor. Your Peerless Prognosticator predicts the Orangemen, led by Larry "The Great" Csonka, will pulverize the Bears, 28-7. And down South, Georgia's Bulldogs will trounce Mississippi State, 29-13 — um-kump!

Boston and Twins Still Deadlocked

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gary Bell, sitting in the clubhouse waiting for the rain to stop so he could find out if he was a winner or a loser, was nervous. And the Boston Red Sox, facing four games with a very live ghost, feel the same way.

Bell pitched 6 1-3 innings in Boston's 6-5 victory over Cleveland Thursday night, but was out of the game when rain came in the ninth inning, delaying the outcome for over an hour.

"I was more nervous sitting here in the clubhouse listening to the radio than I was in the game," said Bell, now 13-12, and then his thoughts turned to Baltimore, which starts a four-game streak with the Red Sox, having won seven of their last eight games.

"They're the toughest team in the league right now," Bell said of last year's pennant winner now tied for sixth place. "They're as tough as they were last season when they won the pennant. They've got everybody back."

Boston's victory, coupled with Minnesota's 4-0 triumph over Kansas City, left the Red Sox and Twins in a deadlock for the American League lead. Chicago is one game out and Detroit 1 1/2 games back. Both the White Sox and Tigers were idle Thursday.

Washington beat Baltimore 4-3 in 11 innings in the only other American League game and, in the day's only National League contest, Atlanta beat St. Louis 4-2.

The Red Sox scored three times in the sixth inning against the Indians, two runs coming on Dalton Jones' single. But Cleveland struck for three runs in the seventh and one in the eighth and it wasn't until after the rains that John Wyatt nailed down the victory getting three batters in a row in the ninth.

The Twins got homers from Harmon Killebrew, No. 40, and Tony Oliva, No. 17, and two-hit pitching from Jim Merritt.

Yerger High Players of Week Named

By LINDA WILLIAMS
Yerger SportsWriter

Yerger High School coaches are happy to announce the players of the week. Knowing the boys played a tremendous game last Friday night at Atlanta, Texas against the Wolverines.

The players for the week are: Chris Hindman and Spencer Brown. These boys had the spirit, and ability for a good game. Chris Hindman has a tackle out of this world, for when he hits, he hits hard. The students around Yerger say "Chris has the tackle, like lightning." This is Hindman's third year at the game. He is a very outstanding Junior. Chris hopes to play college ball, and from there to pro ball.

Spencer Brown also had the crown placed on his head this week for his ability to intercept. Interception is surely what he did. Brown intercepted 2 passes. On the second one he made a gain of 60 yards. This is Brown's last year. Sorry, we will miss him. This is his fourth year of football.

The Students in "Tiger Land" tip their hats to the outstanding boys.

Collins Is Leading the Thunderbird

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Clifton, N.J. (AP) — The U.S. national debt, already large, might have gone sky high had big Bill Collins decided to postpone his injuries for a few years.

"I could have broken medical care," quipped the bulky club pro after taking a one-stroke lead in the $150,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic by shooting a 155, under-par 67 in Thursday's opening round.

Collins is a 6-foot-4, 205-pound ex-Marine who devotes most of his time to teaching at McRae Burn Country Club in Purchase, N.Y., and is only a part-timer on the pro tour. He gave the rest of the 122-man field a putting lesson with a round of 32-35 over the massive 7,055-yard Upper Montclair Country Club course.

Collins' history of physical ailments sounds like the most reading list at your favorite medical school. Back surgery in 1963 failed to fix him up right away, and forced him to quit the tour a year later. Eighteen months ago, he underwent a shoulder operation to correct a whip-lash injury suffered in a plane mishap on the 1965 Caribbean circuit. He's also popped tendons and ligaments in his wrist three times.

"Johnny Applesseed" John Chapman, known as "Johnny Applesseed," devoted his life to planting apple trees. He traveled hundreds of miles over the frontier in the early 1880s, planting and pruning thousands of apple trees.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

All living organisms contain a constant proportion of radiocarbon which, after death, decays at a known rate. This fact, says The World Almanac, enables paleontologists, scientists who study fossils, to measure the amount of radiocarbon of the Carbon 14 in fossil bones and in this way determine the age of organisms not older than 40,000 to 50,000 years.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Blockage May Cause Heart To Have Differing Rhythms

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My pulse rate is about 45 per minute. My doctor says that's not fast enough to force the blood through to my brain. He also said the upper part of my heart doesn't beat at the same rate as the lower part. Is this possible? Is there a remedy for this?

A—In heart block many of the beats of the auricles (upper part) do not get through to the ventricles. Thus the auricles may contract at the normal rate of 70 to 80 beats a minute while the ventricles contract only 45 times or less. Several drugs may be used to treat this condition. One of the best is isoproterenol, which your doctor can prescribe for you.

Q—As long as I can remember my resting pulse has been

Battle of Words Over Gun Control

By WALTER R. MEARS WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid a duel of words over gun control legislation, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan proposed today a Senate investigation of Pentagon policy toward the National Rifle Association. The Republican asked the Senate Armed Services Committee to find out why the NRA has become "the exclusive sales agent" for surplus Army rifles. His request coincided with initial Senate committee action on President Johnson's hotly contested firearms control bill. That measure, bitterly opposed by the NRA, was approved Wednesday by the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee. The 5 to 4 decision was only a preliminary skirmish in the gun control battle, which will be waged later in the full Judiciary Committee and in the Senate itself.

The Johnson bill would bar interstate mail - order firearms sales, along with over-the-counter handgun sales to out-of-state purchasers. It also would bar importation of military surplus handguns and required licensing of all firearms dealers, importers and manufacturers. The inquiry Griffin seeks does not involve the firearms control issue. It stems from the report of some 400 Detroit policemen that they are joining the NRA so they can purchase surplus carbine rifles for possible riot control use.

"Only the NRA and its affiliated units are eligible to purchase surplus arms and ammunition," Griffin complained. "In effect, the government has made the National Rifle Association its exclusive sales agent for surplus rifles."

"I see no reason why law enforcement agencies should be required to go through the NRA to fulfill a defense function," he said.

State and local law enforcement agencies should be permitted to purchase directly the Pentagon's surplus weapons, Griffin said.

There are nearly 400 bridges in Venice, Italy, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

100. My thyroid is normal. Can this fast a pulse be normal?

A—Although 72 to 80 is regarded as the usual resting rate, variations from this range may occur in the normal heart. However, 100 is definitely fast. Beside an overactive thyroid, a fast pulse may be caused by nervous tension, excessive smoking and many less common conditions. You should have an electrocardiogram and other tests to determine the cause.

Q—What are the symptoms of heart strain? Is exercise good for a person with this condition?

A—Heart strain may occur as a result of intense and unaccustomed physical exertion or a severe emotional stress. The symptoms include pain in the region of the heart in persons with a history of previous attacks of angina pectoris and disturbed cardiac rhythm. A cause-and-effect relationship between the aforementioned causes and these symptoms is hard to prove. For this reason the term "heart strain" is avoided by most heart specialists.

Q—My uncle died at the age of 44 of acute myocarditis and pneumonia. Wasn't there any way of telling that the pneumococcus was affecting his heart before it was too late?

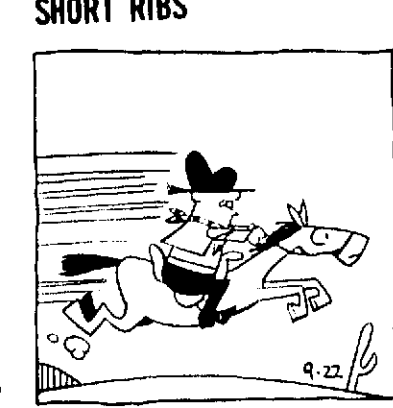

A—Acute myocarditis is a well-recognized complication of acute infections, such as pneumonia. The reason that it is so often fatal is not that the doctor didn't realize the danger but that the pneumonia so severely sapped your uncle's resistance.

Q—I have been taking Isordil for four years. What is it given for?

A—This is one of the long-acting nitrates given to dilate your blood vessels and prevent attacks of angina pectoris. It may be taken indefinitely but should not be taken by anyone who has glaucoma.

DILLAHUNTY, ET AL., AND UNKNOWN OWNERS, DEFENDANTS. CIVIL NO. 1029. NOTICE TO: Heirs, administrators, executors and assigns of J.A. Bracken, deceased, F.Y. Trimble, E.R. Brockway, Mollie Mitchell, R.M. LaGrone, Jr., Evelyn LaGrone, Together with spouses, if any, unknown owners, unknown heirs at law, devisees, legatees, administrators, creditors and representatives of any of said persons who are deceased. You are hereby notified that a Complaint in condemnation has heretofore been filed in the office of the Clerk of the above named Court in an action to condemn; and the estate taken for said public uses is the perpetual right, power, privilege, and easement occasionally to overflow, flood, and submerge the land described in Schedule "A" and to maintain mosquito control in connection with the operation and maintenance of the Millwood Reservoir Project as authorized by the Acts of Congress approved July 24, 1946 (Public Law 526-79th Congress) and July 3, 1958 (Public Law 85-500), together with all right, title, and interest in and to the structures and improvements now situate on the land, except fencing; provided that no structures for human habitation shall be constructed or maintained on the land, and provided further that no other structures shall be constructed or maintained on the land except as may be approved in writing by the representative of the United States in charge of the project, such restrictions being intended for and limited to the prevention of construction which would interfere with the operation of the project or constitute a danger to persons or property; provided further, that any exploration or exploitation of oil, gas and minerals shall be subject to Federal and State laws with respect to pollution; subject to existing easements for public roads and highways, public utilities, railroads and pipelines; reserving, however, to the landowners, their heirs and assigns, all such rights and privileges as may be used and enjoyed without interfering with or abridging the rights and easement hereby acquired, in the property described in the Schedule "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof for public use in connection with the construction, maintenance and operation of the Millwood Reservoir, Little River, Arkansas, and for such other uses as may be authorized by Congress or by Executive Order.

The authority for the taking is the Act of Congress approved February 26, 1931 (46 Stat.) 1421 U.S.C. 258a), and acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof, and under the further authority of the Acts of Congress approved April 24, 1888 (25 Stat. 94, 33 U.S.C. 591) and March 1, 1917 (39 Stat. 948, 33 U.S.C. 701), which authorize the acquisition of land for flood control projects; the Acts of Congress approved July 24, 1946 (Public Law 526-79th Congress and July 3, 1958 (Public Law 85-500), which acts authorize the construction of the Millwood Reservoir Project, Little River, Arkansas; and the Act of Congress approved October 15, 1966 (Public Law 89-689) which act appropriated funds for such purposes. You are further notified that if you have any objection or defense to the taking of your property, you are required to serve upon plaintiff's attorney at the address herein designated within five days after the date of the last publication of Notice an answer identifying the property in which you claim to have an interest, stating the nature and extent of the interest claimed and stating all your objections and defenses to the taking of your property. A failure so to serve an answer shall constitute a consent to the taking and to the authority of the court to proceed to hear the action and to fix the just compensation and shall constitute a waiver of all defenses and objections not so presented. You are further notified that if you have no objection or defense to the taking, you may serve upon plaintiff's attorney a notice of appearance designating the property in which you claim to be interested, and thereafter you shall receive notice of all proceedings affecting the said property. You are further notified that at the trial of the issue of just compensation whether or not you have answered or served a notice of appearance, you may present evidence as to the amount of the compensation to be paid for the property in which you have any interest and you may share in the distribution of the award of compensation.

Time Dilutes Dominican Intervention
By ROBERT BERRELEZ
SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — U.S. military intervention in the Dominican Republic ended a year ago. The aftertaste of the enforced American presence has been diluted by time but probably never will disappear.
Also put aside but not forgotten are the varied causes of the April, 1965, civilian-military uprising that brought on the intervention, first by U.S. forces and later, under the name of inter-American peace force, by a small corps of Latin-American troops.
The violence that many feared would explode when the foreign troops left never attained the predicted proportions. For many here, the past year has been the most peaceful and promising in almost a decade. Still, real political stability seems years away in this Caribbean republic where democratic rule is getting its first prolonged trial since 1930.

The last of the American troops on Dominican soil, units of the 82nd Airborne Division, left Sept. 20, 1966. At peak strength, in mid-1965, U.S. forces numbered some 24,000 on land and about 8,000 in ships offshore.
Although a newly elected government was in power, backed by the United States and the Organization of American States, there were widespread fears that evacuation of the American troops would bring on a renewal of fighting between factions involved in the revolt. The result was a series of vendetta-type clashes and acts of terrorism that reached a climax last April.

Things have quieted since then, but there are authentic reports of arbitrary arrests and detentions of the political opposition, chiefly the Dominican Revolutionary party—PRD—and by army guards in rural areas. The Dominican army is known to regard the PRD and its self-exiled leader, Juan Bosch, as its deadliest enemy. Because of harassment, the PRD is threatening to pull out of important 1968 municipal elections.
The continuance of military pressure on the PRD, despite President Joaquin Balaguer's repeated assurances to party chiefs, is one of many signs that while the armed forces solidly support the president he has a limited control over them.

Compared to This, Metric System Is a Cinch

The Swedes, like the English, have switched from left-hand to righthand driving on the highway to conform with the system which is universal in America and Europe. And the individual Swedes have made a remarkably good record in this change of habits, according to press reports.

Righthand driving became official in Sweden Sept. 2, and in the first two weeks of the new system only 16 persons were killed — just half the number claimed by highway accidents in the same period a year ago.

If the Swedes can change a tough habit like automobile driving then Americans should have no fear about a problem confronting us in the next year or two—switching from our archaic system of measurement by feet and inches, and pounds and ounces, to the metric system used by the rest of the world.

The British have already announced they are converting to metric, leaving the United States alone as a non-metric nation. Our switch is inevitable, for these reasons:

1. Metric is the universal standard for exacting measurement, not only abroad but in scientific, optical, and chemical work in our own country.

2. American exports are being hurt by our failure to adopt the metric system, and this alone is enough to force a change in domestic standards.

3. While the average man may dread the idea of an actual switch to metric measurement it's a lot easier than what the Swedes had to go to in learning to drive all over again.

Taking highway mileage for an example, the conversion to the metric system is simple. The metric unit for a mile is the kilometer — five-eighths of a mile. To convert miles to kilometers you divide by five and multiply the answer by eight.

For instance, your highway speed limit in miles is 60. In kilometers it would be one-fifth, or 12, multiplied by 8, or 96 kilometers.

The distance from Hope to Little Rock is 124 miles—or 200 kilometers. The five-eighths rule makes conversion of highway distances relatively easy.

Another "quikie" is for small measurements. A meter is approximately one yard. Two centimeters (20 millimeters) equal about one inch. In photography a 2-inch-focal-length lens isn't called that — it's called a 50-millimeter lens, whether abroad or in the United States.

In liquid measurement the metric liter is roughly one quart, and so on.

If this sounds complicated it really isn't. The odd thing about it is that we Americans found other people's money systems too complicated and developed the metric plan for currency — 100 cents make one dollar, etc. But other nations developed the common-sense metric system for measurement — and now we stand alone with the abandoned English measurement plan, and we're going to have to change.

The public schools ought to bear down on this hard—and now. For the metric system is something all Americans will have to reckon with in a couple of years. Anything that blocks our export trade is going to be changed — you can be sure of that.

Russia Charges U.S. Trying to Delude World

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko charged today that the United States is trying to delude the world by peace talk while launching military action which at any moment "can draw new states" into the Vietnam conflict.

In a major policy speech before the U.N. General Assembly, Gromyko delivered a stinging reply to Thursday's address by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg who sought to get a commitment that Hanoi would enter peace talks if the United States halted its bombing of North Vietnam.

In Cities Things Are Really Different, the Teachers Play Hookey

By DAN CUFF
NEW YORK (AP)—On coming from the sticks to the big city:

Where the teachers play hookey instead of the kids.

Where the tables and chairs in the sidewalk cafe are chained to the wall to prevent the patrons and passers-by from walking off with them.

Where the air can get thick and yellow and where everything costs too much.

My immigrant forefathers strove mightily to leave this place. But I come back.

There's no place in Manhattan for the middle class, they say. Go to Queens, they advise. Only the rich and the poor can live in Manhattan.

Mother-in-law lives 20 miles out and hasn't visited the city in 15 years. "Wouldn't go there on a bet," she says.

But I believe there's a place for us.

All my life I've been fed the adventure and romance of life in the city, where everything happens first, where they never roll up the sidewalks, where all the exciting people live. But now they tell me it's impossible to live here.

The policeman on the street says: "You looking for an apartment in this neighborhood? Don't do it. They raise dogs around here, not kids."

The neighborhood I choose, they tell me later is the junkie capital of the world.

My car is broken into three times the first week. For their trouble, they get one beat-up baby stroller.

Apartment hunting, my wife kept asking: "Is the neighborhood safe?" The standard answer, spoken almost with the pride of someone living up to a reputation: "No place in New York is safe."

How to develop that tough, alienated character that helps the

New Yorker survive? How to say no to the old lady who asks you to carry her heavy bundle up the subway stairs and then sticks you with carrying it five blocks? How to turn your back on the blind and crippled Negro beggar, son of the city, who moves haltingly through the swaying and screaming subway car seeking coins for his paper cup?

How to intimidate the apartment building superintendent who won't come to fix your broken doorbell, your pilot light, your dripping faucet?

The city can get you down. They told me back in the sticks it would be like this. To top it off, a wise New York billy goat at the Central Park Zoo butted me in the rear.

And yet, we have not surrendered the myth. We have found a comfortable apartment with a view, thoughtfully rent-controlled by the city, situated a block from a romantic Chinese restaurant that never closes.

The other day, brooding over a $5 ticket for a lousy few minutes overtime at the meter, I watched from the apartment window a late summer thunderstorm move in low across the Hudson River. The great buildings of downtown Manhattan were blotted out in its dark cloud. The rain hammered violently at the window, accompanying my lowdown mood.

Then as suddenly as it swept in, the storm was over. The sun glared that familiar, loveable skyline and the air was as crisp and electric as on a Vermont hillside. This was more like it.

Like so many other things, it came to me, New York is what you make it.

We'll give it a try. It doesn't work out, there's always the pseudosticks called the suburbs out there at the end of a fun train ride.

Daughter of Dean Rusk Weds Negro

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—The blonde daughter of Secretary of State Dean Rusk is honeymooning today with her husband, an Army Reserve lieutenant who is a Negro.

The Georgia-born Rusk gave his daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, 18, in marriage Thursday to Guy Gibson Smith, 22, in a formal Stanford University chapel wedding that had been prepared in great secrecy.

The secretary's brother-in-law, Jack Folsie, said Rusk had been "fearful that demonstrations might mar" the occasion.

But the quiet ceremony, attended by parents of both the bride and groom and about 16 other relatives and close friends, was performed in traditional fashion without an incident of any sort.

Rusk arrived in the bay area Wednesday afternoon for the announced purpose of visiting Folsie, home on sick leave from his assignment as a news correspondent in Vietnam.

The wedding license was obtained in similar secrecy, after office hours, from Alfred Devenens, assistant court clerk, who said he was called to a private home in bmoen Park. He said State Department officials requested the special arrangements "in the interest of security."

Asked for comment leaving the chapel, Rusk said he was "very happy."

The father of the groom, Clarence L. Smith of Washington, D.C., called the couple "two young people in love."

He is chief analyst with the Army correction program in the office of the provost marshal-general.

The bride and groom were driven away in a limousine, their honeymoon destination undisclosed.

Later, Mrs. Smith plans to resume studies at Stanford, where she recently completed the summer quarter as a second-year student.

Her husband, a June graduate of Georgetown University, has been employed recently as a data processor with a private contractor at the Ames Space Agency Research Center in Sunnyvale. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve recently and a relative said he expects to be sent to Vietnam.

The romance of the secretary of state's daughter and the Negro college student flourished after they met in Washington and developed an enthusiasm for horseback riding in the capital city's parks.

The New York Times said in a story from Washington that Rusk was prepared to resign if the interracial marriage was deemed politically embarrassing by the Johnson Administration.

Such offers are traditional when high officials serving at the pleasure of a president fear a development has that potential.

The Times said Johnson apparently regarded it as a formal courtesy and gave it no serious consideration.

The Rusk, the Times said, first learned some months ago that their only daughter intended to marry Smith.

Floods Bring More Damage to Texas

By GARTH JONES
CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—The military struggled today to rescue thousands of victims of Hurricane Beulah, supply food to refugees and carry reptile serum. The Weather Bureau said the damage will "approximate a billion dollars."

Three Rivers, a town of 2,000, was ordered completely evacuated.

Main efforts centered around Robstown, Sinton, Pettus and Three Rivers, north and west of Corpus Christi.

The heavily populated Lower Rio Grande Valley, where Beulah first struck Wednesday, was cut off from telephone and highway communications.

The hurricane isolated nearly one million persons in 40,000 square miles—an area as large as Indiana.

Torrential downpours pounded vast portions of northern Mexico across the Rio Grande from this devastated section.

Beulah's decaying terror moved into an area between Laredo, Tex., and Monterrey, Mexico.

The monstrous problem left by the hurricane came from rains of almost 30 inches in one place and severe rains every-

Man Sought in Slaying Captured

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Booker T. McDonald, 54, who had been sought for nearly three weeks for the slaying of a Little Rock policeman, was captured early today in south Little Rock.

McDonald is charged with first-degree murder in the Sept. 2 shooting of Patrolman Lloyd W. Worthy, 27.

Police said a man Worthy had stopped for questioning in connection with an automobile accident earlier in the day, shot the patrolman, abandoned his car and fled on foot in east Little Rock.

The Little Rock Police Department said McDonald was found hiding beneath a blanket in a shack behind a motel. Police said he was armed but that he surrendered peacefully.

Police said the FBI had been tipped that McDonald was in the area Thursday morning. Officers said it was believed that the tip was prompted by a $1,500 reward put up for McDonald's arrest and conviction.

Officers who kept a constant watch on the area sighted McDonald early today while he was getting water from a hydrant on a house. McDonald returned to the shack and an FBI agent and two detectives from the Little Rock Police Department made the arrest.

1st Assembly Film About Youth, Drugs

First Assembly of God announces that the film "Youth in a Fix" will be shown in the evening service of the church this Sunday at 7:30.

"Youth in a Fix" was filmed in the dark corners of New York City. The viewer is taken into the work of gangs, drug addicts, and beatniks . . . into the almost unbelievable horror of a shooting gallery where drug addicts stick dirty needles into their veins just to get high. Then it tells how other dedicated young people have gone in to help restore these derelicts to a respectable place in society by helping them to have faith in Jesus Christ.

The Rev. Willhite stated that the film is being brought into the area to advertise the Dave Wilkerson meeting to be held Oct. 21, and 22 in the Fair Grounds Coliseum. This meeting is being sponsored by the Hope Ministerial Alliance.

The Rev. Mr. Wilkerson, producer of the film, is the author of the best-seller "The Cross And The Switchblade."

Interstate Highway on Schedule, Completion of I-30 Slated 1973

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Interstate highway construction in Arkansas remains on schedule for the target completion date in mid-1973.

The only anticipated cause of delay, said J. T. Pendergrass, chief engineer for the Arkansas Highway Department, would be a curtailment of federal matching funds because of a money squeeze in Washington.

This is unlikely because federal road money comes from a trust fund which is primed by special taxes on gasoline, tires and other automotive products imposed when the interstate highway system law was enacted by Congress.

In a report prepared especially for The Associated Press, the Highway Department gives this breakdown on the status of construction of the 518.8-mile Arkansas portion of the interstate system:

Miles open to travel: 284.9.

Miles completed but not yet open: 10.7.

Miles under paving contract: 123.7.

Miles under grading contract: 42.3.

This leaves 57.2 miles in various stages of planning.

Arkansas has four major interstate segments, Interstate 55 from Memphis to the Missouri line; Interstate 40 from Memphis to North Little Rock; Interstate 40 from North Little Rock to Fort Smith, and Interstate 30 from North Little Rock to Texarkana.

Interstate 55 was completed, although there will be some modifications, and the last segment was opened to traffic Feb. 19, 1965. Total cost of this route was $37,250,000.

The target date for completion of Interstate 40 between North Little Rock and West Memphis is early 1969. Completion of Interstate 40 to Fort Smith and Interstate 30 to Texarkana will come in 1973.

Interstate 540, a spur of I-40 into Fort Smith, is scheduled for completion next summer. The Highway Department also hopes to start work on Interstate 430, a route linking I-40 and I-30 west of Little Rock, will start next summer.

While some states elected to build long stretches of interstate in open areas, Arkansas decided to work first in traffic trouble spots around cities, and most major bypasses have been completed.

Work on the interstate complex in Little Rock as finished and the last mile of the route in Pulaski County opened two years ago. Cost of the work in Pulaski County was $68,160,000.

Bypasses already being traveled are at West Memphis, Forrest City, Russellville, Clarksville, Fort Smith, Benton, Arkadelphia and Texarkana.

The interstate system is not

Last Bridge at Haiphong Is Blasted

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP)—Raiding Navy warplanes severed the last undamaged bridge out of the Red port of Haiphong and probably shot down a MIG fighter attempting to defend the city, the U.S. Command said today.

Red gunners shot down one Navy Crusader jet in the Haiphong area, headquarters said. Radio Hanoi claimed seven American planes were downed in the raids Thursday. In Vietnam's heartland, Communist gunners kept up thunderous barrages along the Demilitarized Zone, aiming about 1,000 shells at the Marine Bastions at Con Thien and Glo Linh in the past 24 hours. Seven Marines were killed and 135 wounded. Also wounded was Associated Press photographer Henry Huet.

The heavy air raids on Haiphong were intended to keep the war supplies flowing into the key North Vietnamese port from ever reaching those guns and other Communist troops fighting in the South. The idea is to close roads and rails leading out of the port, resulting in a massive pileup of supplies in the city.

Missions from the carrier Coral Sea were the fourth this month inside Haiphong, but as in the past the port and docking facilities themselves were shared because of the fear of endangering Soviet bloc shipping and risking a widening of the conflict.

Returning pilots said their 500- and 2,000-pound bombs dropped one span of the 658-foot Kien An highway bridge, leading southwest on the only route out of Haiphong which had not been badly pummeled by U.S. raiders. The bridge is 1.7 miles from the city's center.

Skyhawk jets also made their fourth attack since Sept. 11 on the Haiphong railroad-highway bridge one mile west of the city's center.

Above them, four Communist MIG-17s ran into two supersonic Navy Phantom jets protecting the raiders. In a brief, swirling dogfight, one of the Phantoms scored "possible damage" on one of the MIGs.

Nearby, Red ground fire brought down an RF8 Crusader jet and the pilot was listed as missing. It was the 680th announced combat loss in the North.

American pilots flew 115 missions over North Vietnam Thursday, striking missile sites, bridges, supply targets and rail lines from the Hanoi-Haiphong area down to the scarred area of the Demilitarized Zone where Marine pilots were concentrating on Red gun positions.

The roar of gunfire and bombing along the DMZ has become almost continuous as the war of attrition there mounts daily. In addition to naval gunfire support from destroyers offshore, Marine and Army gunners are throwing out 6,000 shells daily in preplanned barrages and firing more each time the Red gunners open up.

With an estimated 35,000 men available in the DMZ area, the North Vietnamese could be attempting to soften up the Marines for some major thrust. It seemed likelier, however, that they were simply trying to inflict as many casualties as possible—the pattern of part artillery duels along the border.

Sharp but scattered fighting was reported elsewhere in South Vietnam.

As background for the intensified raids on Haiphong, Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, commander of the U.S. 7th Air Force in Vietnam, indicated that disruption of North Vietnamese rail lines down from Red China prompted the Reds to place greater reliance on water shipping to their major port.
